The "Thermal-Urquellbecken"

FLOAT DIRECTLY ABOVE THE THERMAL SPRING

Even the Romans knew: the thermal spa waters of Warmbad were particularly beneficial to people with mobility disorders. Since then, the spring waters of Warmbad have been used to heal and soothe a range of complaints. These are acratc springs (calcium-magnesium-hydrogen carbonate springs) with a source temperature of 29.9 °C.

These special acratc thermal baths are among the oldest balneological treatments and act as a 'fountain of youth'. Their pain-relieving, anti-inflammatory and soothing effect in cases of diseases and damage to the locomotor system have been recognised for centuries.

120 litres of thermal spa water with an average temperature of 29.9 °C gush to the surface every second - a total of 17 million litres of thermal spa water per day. Swim directly above the spring in pure thermal spa water - unique in Europe!

Bathing right above the source of the spring is a unique experience, as all the pure healing powers of the spring are released continuously. Warmbad thermal water acts as an anti-inflammatory and pain-reliever. This makes it particularly suitable for movement therapy in the case of illnesses or restrictions after operations on the musculoskeletal system.

The Tepidarium

Translated literally, the tepidarium means „the mildly warming“. It is rest areas with different room temperatures and bioclimates. Walls and floors feature partly clad hollow tiles, heated with warm water. Across the ceramic surface from all sides - like a well-tempered tiled stove - the bricks give off heat. 40°C in one room, 50°C in the other and then in another 60°C.

This radiant heat does not burden the circulation but warms the body to the core, while the air breathed is not heated.

THE "THERMAL-URQUELLEBECKEN" UNIQUE IN EUROPE.

Float directly above the thermal spring in the natural thermal spa water and enjoy the benefits of the Tepidarium.

Institute for densitometry and osteoporosis

At the SKA outpatient department for orthopaedics in Warmbad-Villach

What is osteoporosis?

In cases of osteoporosis, the number of trabeculae inside the bones (spongiosa) and the interconnections between them is reduced. The outer layer of bone (corticalis) is also often thinner than with healthy bone. Osteoporosis patients therefore have an increased risk of fracturing a bone if they suffer a fall or lift or carry anything heavy.

Osteoporosis assessment and advice in Warmbad

All under one roof, an overview of our services:

- » Consultation with our doctors
- » Osteoporosis screening
- » Bone density measurement using DEXA*
- » X-ray examination
- » Information about nutrition and exercise
- » Therapy and treatment suggestions

* DEXA bone density measurement method:
Bone density is measured using 'Double Energy X-ray Absorption' technology (=DEXA) on the lumbar spine and neck of the femur. This method of investigation only takes a few minutes.

History Tradition Fascination

Enjoy with us on an exciting journey through time and learn more about the development of the health resort, its thousand-year history and the origins of Warmbad.

The healing springs of Warmbad were used back as early as Roman times. Sculpture finds provide evidence of this and inscriptions dating back to the 2nd century A.D., which were found during excavations. Even 2000 years ago, people were aware of the healing powers of the naturally rising warm springs.

Among other things, two completely preserved consecration altars for the Vibes - pre-Roman deities - were found, who were worshipped as protectors of the bubbling warm springs. A female head made of marble was also found along with a right hand with a sacrificial bowl, representing the spring goddess Vibe. The archaeological collection is located on the ground floor of the spa centre.
